Foreword

Professional bodies such as Coaches and Mentors of South Africa (COMENSA) have a critical role in quality assurance and standards development in the South Africa National Qualifications Framework (NQF) environment. Professional bodies, and the registration of their designations, contribute to strengthening social responsiveness and accountability within professions and promoting pride in association for all professions and occupations.

Redress is also a key imperative in the South African policy and regulatory environment. It is critical that perceptions of exclusionary practices be addressed upfront and that professions do not apply unjust policies and practices regarding who gains access to a profession.

COMENSA is proud to be working with the custodian of the NQF, the South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA) to make sure that all South Africans benefit from the professional development.

Value and Benefits of Recognition of Prior Learning or RPL

10. Undergoing an RPL process as an active member of COMENSA has numerous benefits and value that includes but is not limited to:

10.1 it facilitates access for persons who may not have had the opportunity to do further study.

10.2 It acknowledges the value of learning outside of formal setting and recognises the history of self-development and learning that people have embarked on in their life.

10.3 It validates the worth of the learning that people have achieved by themselves in their self-development journey.

10.4 It enables people to progress to another education and training programme once recognised.

10.5 It eliminates unnecessary repetition of duplication of material already familiar to the person.

- 10.6 It shortens the time necessary to earn a designation and therefore motivates a person who might otherwise be discouraged by the length of time required to do so.
  - 10.7 It helps to efficiently identify the skills gaps and knowledge allowing for a focused personal development ongoing training to close those gaps for recognition of competence and designation.
  - 10.8 It provides recognition of competencies and practical achievements and therefore opens opportunities within the job market as well.
  - 10.9 It empowers people who were unfairly discriminated against in the past with respect to education and employment opportunities and are now allowed access to these opportunities.

Most importantly RPL through COMENSA may give a member access to a professional designation that allows a person to be formally registered as a member of a Profession, defined by SAQA as “A disciplined group of individuals who adhere to ethical standards enforced by the profession and who hold themselves out as, and are accepted by the public as possessing specialised skills and knowledge in a widely recognised body of learning derived from research, education and training at a high level, and who are prepared to apply this knowledge and exercise these skills in the interest of others.”
